RANDALL'S ILLNESS.

Solicitude of Members of Congress and the President.

MR. RANDALL WILL BE TAKEN HOME

Probability That He Will Not Be Able to Transact Business During the Pres-ent Session—Washington Gossip.

WASHINGTON, July 11 .- [Special.]-There has probably been more anxiety expressed among congressmen over Mr. Randall' condi-tion than any statesman who has been ill in years. Every hour during today a page was sent from the house to his home, on Capitol hill, to inquire after his condition, and even the president has sent, both yesterday and to-day. Mr. Randall is still a very ill man, but day. Mr. Kandall is still a very fil man, but there has been a general feeling of satisfaction expressed today over his improvement. The family are much encouraged by his favora-ble condition. It is not expected, however, that Mr. Randall will be able to resume the discharge of his duties in congress during the remainder of this session, nd he will probably be removed to his home at Philadelphia as soon as his condition justi-

In the Washington correspondence of the Macon Telegraph, which arrived here this morning, I note the following statement:

is only necessary to state in reply that this ent made in this correspondence Sunday was absolutely correct; that the conference committee did, on Saturday, strike out the senate amendment referring to Savannah, not committing the government to the twenty-eight feet scheme. Mr. Norwood has been exerting every effort to have the committee reconsider, but as yet without success, and it is doubtful if he will meet with success, as more than half the committee are opposed to committing the government. I can only that the correspondent of Telegraph was so much vexed with himself over failing to secure the news that he desired to have it discredited. The committee is bound to secrecy, but when their report is made my statement will be proven correct, unless Mr. Norwood yet prevails upon them to reconsider. The "gentleman who is in position to know," referred to above, whose name was mentioned in the press gallery by the said cor-respondent, has positively denied to me having made any such statement as the one credited to him, that "there is no truth in the report." I would advise the truthful correspondent of the Telegraph in future to endeavor to secure news first, and not attempt to make news by trying to prove that published by others incorwhen he should know to the contrary.

Judge Stewart today received a telegram from Atlanta announcing his unanimous renomination. While nothing else was expected he was nevertheless congratulated by many of his colleagues. The judge is quite popular with members of the house, and has made a faithful representative. He has been very successful with local measures before the house and is considered a good member.

POSTOFFICE APPROPRIATIONS. The Conference Report Agreed to in the Ser

WASHINGTON, July 11 .- The conference report on the stoffice appropriation bill was presented to the senate. The item for postce clerks for unusual business is fixed at $25,000 instead of $50,000. The item as to rent. light and fuel in the third-class postoffices is retained, with the proviso that no contract for rent for such postoffices shall be for more than a year. The item as to postage on seeds is fixed so as to make the postage one cent for every two ounces.

After an explanation by Mr. Plumb moved that the senate insist on the subsidy amendment and ask for a further conference. As to the postmaster-general's statement that the existing postal service to South and Central America was satisfactory, Mr. Plumb said that, with great respect to that official, he did not believe a word of it. It might be satisfactory to the postoffice department, but it was not satisfactory to the business public.

The entire foreign mail service of the country now yielded a profit of between $600,000 and $700,000 a year. If the $800,000 in the amendment were appropriated and were all expended by the postmaster general, the foreign mail service would still not result in a deficiency. The department now paid fifty cents a mile for Cuba mails between New York and Tampa, and paid more for steam transportation between Tampa and Havana than was paid for all South American and Central American countries. Under this policy with Cuba a system of assimilation was going on in that island, and some of these days the United States would have Cuba by natural process, and without war, and the United States would take possession in the same way of all those southern countries if it would only apply to them the same rule of postal facilities that it applied at home.

Mr. Beck, one of the senate conferces, said he had no idea that the house would agree to the amendment, and he didn't believe that it ought to do so. It was a subsidy pure and simple, not wanted by the postoffice department, not forming part of the system. As the postmaster-general had said, the money might justas well be given to a few men as a bonus, leaving him unembarrassed by difficulties. He read with favorable comments the communication fem and declared that this communication demonstrated that, since the time when subsidizing was begun in this country, with the Garrison subsidy, the Roach subsidy and Pacific mail subsidy, no trade had been built up, and no trade was intended to be built up. It was intended to embarrass and injure exi

Jones, of Arkansas; Reagan, Saulsbury, Turpie, Vest, Walthall—16.

The senate then proceeded to the consideration of the senate bill to provide for fortification and other sea coast defenses.

On a motion by Mr. Plumb to postpone consideration of the bill till the 25th of July, (on the ground that the regular fortification bill would before that time be received from the house), a long discussion took place, going over the whole range of modern naval warfare, the best class of war ships, the most improved types of guns and the necessity for coast fortifications.

Mr. Cockrill ridiculed the scare about danfor of war as simply farcical. The bill proposed an appropriation of $126,000,000 for a system of fortifications which the grandchildren and great grandchildren of the present generation would never see tased. It would be money absolutely thrown away. He argued that earthworks could be constructed in a few weeks, and was then asked by Mr. Stewart where the guns to arm them would be obtained. To this he replied that he favored the encouragement of steel works that could be in condition to build the guns.

SUGAR FROM SORGHUM.

Why the Conferees on the Agricultural Bill Disagreed.

Washington, July 11.—In his opening prayer this morning the chapiain feelingly alluded to Mr. Randail's illuess, and invoked the divine blessing and protection upon the sufferer.

A conference was ordered on the land forfeiture bill, and Messis. Holman of Indiana, Stone of Missouri, and Payson of Illinois, were appointed conferees.

Mr. Hatch, of Missouri, submitted the report-of disagreement on the agricultural appropria-tion bill, stating that the point of disagreement was the senare amendment making an appro-priation of $100,000 for sorghum sugar experi-

Mr. Ryan, of Kansas, hoped that the senate Mr. Ryan, of Kansas, hoped that the senate would insist upon the amendment.

Mr. Hatch said congress had twice appropriated money for these experiments, and that the commissioner of agriculture had stated that they had been concluded. Money had been generously apprepriated, and further aid would be in the nature of a subsidy to some sugar making firm. If sugar makers could not now make sugar from sorghum, it was not because they did not have all of the information that denartment could give

Mr. Ryan moved concurrence in the senate amendment. He pointed out the benefits which had accrued to the agricultural interests which had accrued to the agricultural interests of the country from former appropriations for sorghum experiments, and he contended that still further appropriations would result in still greater good. The field of experiment was yet rich, broad and fruitful, and notwithstanding Hatch's statement to the contrary, he had reliable information that the department of agriculture wanted more money with which to explore this field.

After further dehate Mr. Evan's motion to explore this field.

After further debate Mr. Ryan's motion to concur was agreed to—yeas 125, nays 96.

This completed the consideration of the bill, and it stands as finally passed.

Mr. Clements, of Georgia, submitted the conference report on the District of Columbia appropriation bill, and it was agreed to.

The house then went into committee of the whele on the tariff bill. The pending amendment was that offered by Mr. Phelps, of New Jersey, fixing at 40 per cent the advalorem duty on flax or linen thread and all manufactures of flax.

ures of flax.

The greater part of the afternoon was then The greater part of the afternoon was then consumed in an animated political debate, in which the Phelps interview, the Chicago enomination, Ingalls's letter, and alleged personal and political inconsistencies of Mr. Weaver, of Iowa, were subject of discussion, rather than the Phelps amendment to the tariff bill. The discussion was then turned into a business channel by Mr. Breckinridge, of Arkansas, who opposed the Phelps amendment, which was finally rejected.

On motion of Mr. Breckinridge, of Arkansas, an amendment was adopted changing the duty on bag and bagging from fifteen per cent advalorem to three-eighths of a cent per pound.

Mr. Buchanan, of New Jersey, in behalf of Mr. Buchanan, of New Jersey, in behalf of Mr. Lehlback, offered an amendment making the duty on "seines forty per cent instead of trenty-five per cent.

The amendment was rejected, as was en amendment offered by Mr. Jackson, of Pennsylvania, fixing a similar rate of duty on manufactures of hemp or manilla not enumerated.

The third section of the bill—that relating to wools and woolen manufactures—being reached Mr. Mills proposed that the entire sixty-one lines of the section be read and considered as one paragraph, as in the case of the sugar paragraphs, amendment to be in order at any place.

Mr. Mills endeavored to reach an agreement as to the time to be allowed for debate Mr. Mills endeavored to reach an agree-ment as to the time to be allowed for debate on the section, proposing two days, but Mr. Reed objected to fixing any time before the lebate had been fairly started.

The entire section was read without objec-

Mr. Cox, of New York, chairman of the committee on census, said that he had intended to address the house at length upon the subject, but owing to the warmth of the evening, he contented himself with a few general remarks in regards to the importance of the work to be accomplished. The report accompanying the

In reporting this bill the committee would state that, in its salient features, it is the same bill, substantially, which provided for taking the tenth census. The publications of the tenth census number twenty-two volumes.

The committee propose to omit publications on all subjects except the following seven subjects, viz.: Population and social statistics, relating briefly to manufactures, mining, agriculture, mortality and vital statistics, valuation and public indebtedness, all of which are indispensable in taking the census. Those which are omitted, although very useful for general information, political discussion and social science are omitted because the same information may be gathered by and published from the bureaus of the government, and because they can well be dispensed with from this decennial census. By an ingenious little amendment, the effect of which was not noticed by any members present, Mr. O'Neill, of Missouri, secured an increase of wages for the messenger, assistant messenger and watchman

He had been severely ill for several days and was believed to be slowly convalescing, He left this city for the seashore this morning for the purpose of recruiting his failing health. He was born in Virginia in 1820, was graduated in medicine at the University of Pennsylvania in 1841, entered the United States navy as assistant surgeon the same year, was promoted to IsH, entered the United States navy as assistant surgeon the same year, was promoted to surgeon in 1848 and resigned in 1848 in order to accept the professorship of clinical medicine in the National Medical college of this city. He married the eldest daughter of Henry A. Wise. At the breaking out of the war he left Washington and became surgeon-general of the confederate army. He was the family physician of Jedferson Davis and of all his cabinet officers, and accompanied Mr. Davis after the evacuation of Richmond, and at the close of the war he came back to Washington, and was again elected professor in the medical college. Recently he was elected president of the American Medical association. He contributed many valuable papers to medical literature.

EDITOR MOORE AND MRS. NORTON They Deny That They Carried Off Any of Norton's Money-Mrs. Norton is Very Nervous-Other News.

Sr. Louis, Mo., July 11 .- Dispatches from Topeka. Kas., say a hearing on application for writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Moore and Mrs. Norton has been postponed by Judge Guthrie until tomorrow. Mrs. Norton is said to be very nervous today, and clings still closer to Moore. Mrs. Caswell had another interview with her this afternoon, but her pleadings to the erring woman were of no avail. Both she and Moore vehemently deny the report about the amount of money and valuables taken by them from St. Louis. Mrs. Norton says the money she has is her own, but she is willing to give up certain deeds to property given her by her husband. Moore denies most positively that he has any other than trifling debts in St. Louis, and that he never borrowed a dollar from Norton.

Moore and Mrs. Norton were not informed until this morning, and it was known to no one but the officers that a complaint was filed by County Attorney Curtis, last evening, be fore Justice S. Earle against them, charging them with a violation of the state law under section 12, in relation to marriages, which makes it a misdemeanor to live together as man and wife, and fixes the penalty at not less than $500 nor more than $1,000, nor less than thirty days nor more than three months imrisonment. Had they been released today, they would have been arrested on the above charge. It is not likely that the warrant will be served until they are released. A reporter asked Judge Laughlin this morning if he rought there was any doubt about their being able to take Moore back to St. Louis. "Not in the least," said the judge. "I do not think he will be released on habeas corpus, and if he is released there are other ways in which we can hold him.

FAILING TO ROB, The Burglar Then Attempted a More Seriou

GALVESTON, Texas, July 11 .- [Special.]-About 2 o'clock yesterday morning a bold at-tempt at robbery and outrage was made at the residence of a working man, corner of avenue N and Sixteenth street. The night being sulry, all the windows were left open. The ughter, who is but twelve years of age, took a pillow and lay down on the floor in the back om, while the ather and mother occupied a bed in the front room. About the hour men-tioned the daughter was rudely awakened, by a man, whose actions but too plainly indicated is devilish intent.

With a scream of horror, the child fled into the front room, and her assailant leaped through the window and escaped. She was unable to see whether the man was white or colored. On investigation it was found tha everything in the house had been overhauled. Drawers were taken out and their contents scattered promiscuously about. Even the kitchen had been visited and the contents of the pantry overhauled in the search for valuables. Nothing was missing, however. The doors were locked, and the intruder must have entered by a window. His mission was, evidently, robbery, but not finding anything of sufficient value to justify removal, he attempt-

A BLOODY TRAGEDY

Which Results From the Bolten Incident of the Night Before.

Hot Springs, Ark., July 11 .- [Special.]-A bloody tragedy was enacted at Benton station the passenger station, between 5 and 6 o'clock' this evening. The result was the killing of Ex-Policeman William Bolton. Early vesterday Bolton figured in a scrape to which is traced the cause of the tragedy. He was on duty as an officer Monday night, and was called upon to arrest a crowd from the country. There were four of the men, and they turned the tables on the officer by capturinging and taking him to the woods, where many indignities were heaped upon him. About 8 o'clock yesterday a. m., Bolton con-fronted the two Houpt brothers from Philips' township, under the impression that they were members of the crowd who mislead him. He struck each a blow and drew his pistol. Bystanders interfered and prevented further trouble. For this offense Bolton was suspended from the police force. It developed that Bolton was mistaken as to the identity of the Houpts, as the latter were shown to be innocent. The Houpt brothers were passing out Benton street in a wagon this evening, when Bolton came in sight welking to the passenger depot. In a remarkably brief time the expolicemen was a dead man. Four shots were fired from the wagon, and Bolton was literally perforated. The wagon containing the Houpts was rapdily driven east, but was soon overtaken and the men gave themselves up and are now in the county jail.

THE SCREAM OF A WOMAN

Leads to the Arrest of an Offending Negro in Montgomery.

Montgomery, Ala., July 11.—[Special.]age, was brought here from Macon county today and lodged in the county jail for safe keeping. On last Friday J. M. Knowles, one of the most highly respectable citizens of Macon county, was awakened by screams coming from a room occupied by his two daugh ters, one nine and one twelve years of age. He quickly started towards the room and a negro dashed past him and disappeared. The elder daughter of Knowles, on going to the room to retire, had discovered the negro, Bill Anderson, lying on the bed with her younger sister, where he had been for some time.

Her screams frightened him, and he ran. He was finally captured, and carried to Tus-keegee, the county seat, on Monday, and lodged in jail. Threats of lynching were loud, but it was thought nothing serious was going to result from it. Today, however, a mob began to form with the avowed purpose of lynching the prisoner, and so evident was it that ing the prisoner, and so evident was it that the local military would be insufficient to protect him, that Sheriff Pinckard hurried him off to the train, and brought him here tonight, where he is now confined. Although fully identified by both of the daughters of Knowles, the negro stoutly declares his innocence, and claims he was not in the vicinity at the time. The chain of circumstantial evidence wound around him is so strong as to preclude the possibility of an acquittal.

An Execution at Wilmington. An Execution at Wilmington.

WILMINGTON, N. C., July 11.—Stephen Freeman, colored, convicted of the crime of rape on a white woman, was hanged here today. The execution took place in the jail, only thirty-six witnesses being admitted as required by law. Several applications were made to the governor for pardon or commutation of sentence to life imprisonment, but after careful consideration he refused to interfere. Freeman protested his innocence to the last. MEXICAN CRUELTY

Wreaked Upon Unsuspecting Custon

Wreaked Upon Unsuspecting Customs Offenders.

Et Passo, Tex., July 11.—[Special.]—There is at present a spirited controversy raging between the newspapers published in the state of Chihuahua on the subject of the extreme cruelty alleged to be practiced by the customs officers along the Rio Grande border against poor and ignorant offenders against the customs regulations of the Mexican republic.

These cruelties are not charged so much against the officials connected with the main office at Paso Del Norte, but against the deputy collectors of inferior stations between that place and Nogales, such as Ascension, Janos and similar places.

The very indefinite southern boundary line of the Zona Libere or freezone, which ranges all the way from twenty miles to twenty leagues in width, and the exact location of which is seldom known to the poor and ignorant people living in that section of the country makes it very easy for these people to become sometimes unwittingly transgressive in a small way against the excessively severe customs laws which are on every occasion enforced with barbarous harshness against humble offenders.

The most recent case of extreme severity

The most recent case of extreme severity has aroused the ire of a portion of the independent press, which is round in its condemnation. Several young men living in the northwestern corner of Chihuahua, bought at some points within the free zone two towels, two handkerchiefs, one pair of shoes and one woman's dress pattern, in all worth not quite nine dollars, which they intended for the use of their families living somewhere near the southern line of the free zone, but of the exact location of which they somewhere near the southern line of the free zone, but of the exact location of which they were ignorant. On their way home they were met by some customhouse officials, who detected the small bundle containing their purchases and marched them under arrest to Paso del Norte, several hundred miles distant. They were driven along like Russian exiles to Siberia, and after lying in a loathsome dungeon for awhile were sentenced to six months imprisonment, ten years of police surveillance, and the confiscation of their horses, saddles and bridles.

The Contincola of Paso Del Norte and other liberal paper in the state stigmatize this as uneral paper in the state stigmatize this as un necessarily severe and barbarous, and protest against it in spirited terms, while the Sinpartial of the city of Chihualiua and other administration organs, defend the customs officers. The thorough discussion of this matter, which is now going on will probably bring about a much needed change.

An Arkansas Girl Who Is Bound to Have a Finished Education. TEXARKANA, Ark., July 11.-Miss Frankie, TEXABRANA, Ark., July 11.—Miss Frankie, daughter of Squire Linn Whitehead, the wealthy planter, desiring to change her cozyhome among the moaning of the pines for college life, Wednesday, without the consent of her parents, made the purchase of half a dozen mammoth traveling trunks, filling them with silks, lawns, fine muslins, shees, and other lady's wearing apparel, selected from one of the best stocks of goods in one of the extensive dealers in ladies' dress goods in the extensive dealers in ladies' dress goods in one of the extensive dealers in ladies' dress goods in the city, had the same charged to her father, and directed that her purchases be shipped to her address at one of the leading ladies' semi-naries north. The father was duly notified of the purchases made by his fair daughter, who had already boarded a north-bound train and mad already boarded a north-found train and was rapidly speeding away to join the Vassars. The father, not being pleased with the extensive purchases at his expense and the less of the winsome girl, wired for her to be arrested and sent one of the salesmen of the house from which the goods were purchased after her. Mr. Sanderson, the gentleman sent in her pursuit, returned son, the gentleman sent in her pursuit, returned yesterday morning, accompanied by the beau-tiful Miss Frankie. She was turned over to the kind care and keeping of her father, who has promised that his petand idol shall be permitted to go to school to her heart's content. She takes her arrest good naturedly, and with blushing smiles asserts that she's bound to have a finished education.

SHUTTING UP SHOP.

Iowa Liquor Dealers Tired of Fighting the Prohibition Law. BURLINGTON, Iowa, July 11 .- A decision of more than ordinary importance and involving a new point under the prohibitory liquor law of Iowa has been rendered by Judge Phelps, of the district court. Two years ago a saloon keeper, whose place of business was enjoined as a nuisance, appealed to the Iowa supreme as a unisance, appealed to the Iowa supreme court, and after filing a supersedeas bond, continued the traffic. The injunction was sustained, and the saloon keeper again gave bond, carried his case to the United States supreme court, where it is not likely to be reached for a year or two yet. Recently proceedings were brought to have him arrested and fined for contempt of court in continuing the illegal traffic, notwithstanding the injunction. His defense was that pending the decision of the federal court, the injunction did not apply, but decision of the federal court, the injunction did not apply, but the district court now decides that the injunction must stand and the saloon must close. The saloon keeper at once closed up and others will follow suit, as they admit that further resistance to the law is useless.

APPLYING THE BOYCOTT. The Switchmen Striking Against the Abnox-ious Cars. Kansas City, Mo., July 11.—At ten o'clock Kansas City, Mo., July 11.—At ten o'clock this morning the boycott against Burlington cars was put into effect by switchmen of this place. Wabash and Chicago and Alton officials notified the Burlington company that they would continue to receive cars as usual. As no switching has been done at this hour, the result is still in doubt. Shortly before noon about twenty-five strikers make an assault upon C. A. Scanlon, a new switchman, and beat him in a terrible manner. George Sheehan, a striker, then had Scanlon arrested for flourishing a revolver, and said the assault was made in self-defense. A warrant has been sworn out for the arrest of Sheehan for assault. Burlington has a full compliment

ALONG THE LITTLE KANAWHA RIVER Railroads Suffer by Having Bridges and Trestles Washed Away—Stories of Suffering-Lives Lost.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 11 .- The storm

n Monday night was the most disastrous of the many which visited this region during the past week, and the loss of property in a range of twelve counties hereabout is estimated at a quarter of a million dollars. A bridge worth 40,000 was swept from its moorings here yesterday. All day immense quantities of wheat and timber floated past in a tangled mass. Almost every farm in the valley of counties adjoining this has been swept clean of its products. The Middle Island Tie company lost 45,000 ties last night, valued at $13,500. A number of trestles and bridges on the Columbus and Northern road, running into Harmar, on the Ohio side, are washed away, and travel is indefinitely suspended. The Zanesville and Ohio river road, just put into operation, is badly washed out, and it will be several days before travel is resumed. No train has come from the east on the Baltimore and Ohio since Monday morning. The town of Salem is entirely under water, and the people have left their homes.] rday. All day immense quantities of wheat peir homes. PITTSBURG, July 11.—The latest estimates PITTSBURG, July 11.—The latest estimates of damage puts the total loss at over a million dollars. Wheeling reports the damage in the vicinity of Grafton, West Virginia, at not less than $250,000, and about Fairmont at as much more. The less at Brownville, Pa., is reported to be over $125,000; at Rowiesburg, West Virginia, $125,000. In this neighborhood it will exceed $100,000, and it is not exaggerating to say that with the above as a fair estimate, the total loss will exceed one million dollars, as the flooded district covers an area of fully two hundred and fifty miles.

At McKeesport all the faills are closed and hundreds are homeless and destitute. The Charteries natural gas main, cros ing the river arteries natural gas main, cros ing the river at that point was broken during the night, and at that point was broken during the night, and an immense pressure of gas forced into the air. Watchman Kuight, of the Pittsburg, McKeesport and Youghtogy railroad, crossed the trestle at Saltsburg a short time after, and his lantern ignited the gas, causing a tremendous explosion. Knight was fatally burned and the bridge set on fire, but the flames were not extinguished before it was destroyed. Traffic extinguished before it was destroyed. Traffic has been almost suspended on the Pittsburg, Virginia and Charleston road. No trains are running south of Peters creek, nineteen miles from bere water at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and still rising.

A Wheeling dispatch says the freshet was the greatest ever known. The destruction to property is beyond computation, but enough is known to warrant the declaration that nearly known to warrant the declaration that nearly every house and most of the fencing out all low lands between that point and Clarksburg, on the west, and as far at least as Grafton, on the Valley river, have been swept away. From early dawn until dark the Monongehela continued to rise and during that time the channel was full of houses, fences, timber, saw logs, shocks of wheat, parts of bridges and other debris, denoting the have of the rushing waters. The water is now falling at headwaters and the worst is over. Since midnight the river at Brownsville has receded five feet. In this city there was twenty-two feet of water at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and still rising.

At 6 p. m. the water was falling at all po'nts between Pittsburg and the head waters of the Monongahela and no more damage from the freshet is apprehended. The highest point reached here was 23 feet and at 6 o'clock had fallen 22 feet at Brownsville, California, and other towns along the upper Monongahela. There were three feet more water than ever before. The current is still running at the rate of nine miles per hour, but the river is comparatively clear of debris, everything having run out. Coal men are now getting their coal tow in readiness and tomorrow about 10,000,000 bushels will be started down the river.

A later dispatch from Wheeling says, from reports received from the flooded district of West Virginia, it looks as if the money lost by Monday's rain would reach nearly $2,600,000. At least three lives have been lost. The water is now falling rapidly at all points, and it is becoming possible to get detailed reports from small towns and villages in the mountains. Not less than fifty bridges are gone in Marion, Harrison, Taylor, Wetzel, Wood, Wirt, Ritchie, Lewis and adjoining counties, and hundreds of houses have been swept away or are badly damaged.

In Taylor county the loss is $250,000; in Harrison as much more; in Wood over $100,000, and in like proportions all through the flooded districts. In Grafton and vicinity the loss will not fall short of a quarter of a million. In addition to washing away little Kanawha bridge at Parkersburg, the flood has done other severe have. All Baltimore and Ohio trains are stopped from the east. Two tunnels between Parkersburg and Grafton are caved in, and the new Zanesville and Ohio road is reported to be badly damaged. The Ohio river was damaged to a great extent below Parkersburg. Great losses of crossties and timber are reported. The destruction to property all along the little Kanawha and Ohio rivers is greater than in 1864 when the great flood came.

Great Suffering in Mexico by the Recent

Sr. Louis, Mo., July 11.—Late advices from Leon, Mex., say of the principal scene of the great flood:

"Masses of people are packed in Porteole's stables and every available place of shelter, averaging one person to less than a square yard of space, with piles of flag matting laid on the ground for beds and a few miserable rags for cover. All able-bodied men have Signing the Scale.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 11.—The amalgamated scale was signed this afternoon by Jones & Laughlins, of the American Iron works of this city and by the Gate City Iron company, of Gate City, Ala. The signing of scale by Jones & Laughlins was received with general rejoicing by the iron workers, as they regard it as virtually ending the lockout.

This afternoon President Weihe, of the Amalgamated association, held a lengthy conference with the firm, the result being the signing of the scale after he had made the same concessions as were allowed to other manufacturers who have signed.

To Start Up Again.

Bethlehem, Pa., July 11.—The Bethlehem Iron company will start up their rail mills Monday under the new scale, which reduces the standard and the standard and a few miserable rags for cover. All able-bodied men, have been forced away to work by the government. Rations of bread and meat are issued and everything possible done to relieve the suffering. Children up to twelve years of age are among these masses without a thread of clothing and at night are wrapped in whatever rags the family have for covering. Anything whatever of food or clothing, no matter how poor, is received with extreme gratitude. In view of the nature of the buildings involved, they being constructed of adobe, and a great number of them which were destroyed, it is still believed the bodies of many hundred people are in the ruins. Some 300 were recovered, but the stench was so great that further search was abandoned.

At that Times as a purely personal matter. had intended to treat his libel suit against the Times as a purely personal matter. At that time, however, Mr. Davitt wrote to him offering every assistance in Mr. Parnell's power to further his interests. On finding that Mr. Parnell was willing to assist him, he felt himself bound to regard the representations put forward on behalf of the case, and down to a short time before the trial began, Mr. Parnell had agreed with Mr. Davitt and other prominent Parnellites that more fully the case was fought in court the better would it be for the reputation of the home rulers.

more fully the case was fought in court the better would it be for the reputation of the better would it be for the reputation of the home rulers.

Immediately before the opening of the trial, however, he heard, through Mr. Davitt, that Parnell was listening to other advices; that the liberals were imposing upon him the necessity of adopting a more cautious policy. Last mooth he himself was persuaded to pursue the same over cautious policy which had led to the collapse of his entire case. He had desired that the evidence should be of the fullest nature; but two of the most distinguished liberal lawyers gave him unsought advice, counseling him not to assist the defense in fishing for evidence. It was undoubtedly known that the Times had gone to great lengths, even dealing with the invincibles whose hands were red with blood of the Phenix park victims in order to precure evidence. It was vrged that the Times's own evidence ought to justify the libels and of any part of the case appeared to have been made out. Messrs. Parnell, Davitt, McCarthy, Sexton, and others should have gone into the witness box and stated the fact. Mr. O'Donnell continued:

"I am rujned in consequence of this action."

box and stated the fact. Mr. O'Dennell continued:

"I am runable to understand how my eminent advisors proved so seriously wrong. All of the best and most straightforward and courageous nationalists were heartily with me, desiring that the most complete inquiry be made. Through the over-cleverness of certain eminent advisors the case was ruined. Parnell, as regards the reference to the letter ascribed to him, is entitled to consider the best course to be pursued in his own defense, 'but the Times charges affect the party generally. My abortive contest with the Times more than ever proves that the true policy of the nationalists is to demand a thorough investigation."

ROW AMONG THE DOCTORS.

About the Illness of the Late Emperor Frederick.

Frederick.

Berlin, July 11.—The Vassische Zeitung declares that the reports printed yesterday of the German physicians who attend the late Emperor Frederick, were in many respects untrue. It says it is understood that the independent, medical authority, will soon show, in a statement based on the record of the late emperor's case, that the conclusions arrived at by the German physicians were incorrect.

The Messers. Decker, a publishing firm, have commenced action againt the National Zeitung for publishing alleged false reports of the doctors who attended Emperor Frederick. They claim heavy damages. The Deckers will issue official reports of the case tomorrow.

Dr. Mackenzie has asked the Medical Journal to state that in deference to wishes which he is bound to respect he cannot reply—to the reports of the German doctors, which, he says, are full of misstatements and untruth. He says he will be able to prove this when the prohibition, which is now laid upon him, shall have been withdrawn.

A STRANGE CASE.

Ejected by a Powerful Emetic.

VINCENNES, Ind., July 11.—Boonville, Ind., is the home of James M. Crow, a prominent merchant and worthy citizen. He has just had a strange experience that puzzles the medical fraternity. For five years he has been an invalid, but could not tell the cause of his affliction. In time he wore down to a mere skeleton, and his friends became alarmed for him. His case was extreme, and his annoyance seemed to be chiefly located in his stomach. Acting on his own impulses the other day he took a powerful emetic. He was induced to do this because there was an unusual gnawing in his stomach. The emetic brought up an animal, or whatever it was, about six inches long, nearly an inch in diameter in the thickest part, and pinkish in color. When fresh from the sufferer's stomach this curiosity had one well-developed eye, a peculiar but perfect mouth, and what appeared to be a plump stomach. In the hopes of preserving the animal it was placed in alcohol, but soon all traces of the disgusting thing were obliterated and it was reduced to a whitish pulp. No name can be found for it in any medical work. Mr. Crow says he often felt the thing crawling about in his stomach, but did not think of such a living thing existing there and claiming that part of his bedy as its home At present he feels that a great load, like a cloud from the face of the sun, had been removed from him, and his old-time cheerfulness has come back to him. The curiosity is now on exhibition at Dr. Park's office in Boonville. A One-Eyed Snake in a Man's Stomach Ejected by a Powerful Emetic.

SHOT FROM AMBUSH.

A Negro Gambler Assassinates a Prominent Millman.

TENNILLE, Ga., July 11.-[Special.]-News has just reached here of a horrible tragedy at inent business gentleman of that county loses his life at the hands of a negro gambler.

The details of the assassination, so far as are learned, are characteristic of the mean negro throughout. Summit is a little village twenty miles from Rogers, and is on the Rogers and Summit railroad. The town is inhabited solely by the employes of Wadley & Mosby, who do as milling and merchandise business there. They also own the branch road from Rogers to their place of business.

Alex Anderson is a black negro of villianous appearance, who has figured prominently in many cutting and shooting scrapes. He has been in the employ of Wadley & Mosby in til recently, when it was learned that he was running a gambling den on their premises. He was then discharged and ordered to leave the place. Time and again, he was asked to leave, but to no avail, last Friday Mr. Mosby met him and repeated the request, which was met by an insulting reply from the negro.

Both men finally drew their revolvers and opened fire, but neither was hurt. On Sunday the negro told it around that he was going to kill Mosby on sight. Mr. Mosby, hearing of the threat, swore out a warrant, and, together Sheriff Moore, started towards the negro's house, this morning at 2 o'clock, for the purpose of arresting him. They thought they would catch him leaving the house about daylight, and little dreamed that the negro suspected their motive.

When within about fifty yards of the house they heard the quick click of a shotgun, and in a moment later they saw the bright flash that took the life of Mr. George E. Mosby. The night was fearfully dark, and the sheriff could only fire at the direction from whence the flash appeared. The negro escaped in the darkness. The alarm was at once given, and the entire populace began scouring the country

At last accounts they were still searching for the murderer. If he is found, Judge Lynch will be very apt to pass sentence.

Who Has Carried on His Business Ever Since the War. NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 11 .- [Special.]-

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 11.—[Special.]—Deputy Marshall Spurrier, who has just returned from the upper Cumberland country, had a 'right interesting time' with one man eaptured. He is an old man of more than sixty years, and is known as "Humpy" Pennington. He is of immense build, but has an unsightly physical deformity that has given him the name of "Humpy." He wears his grayish, yellow hair handing in uncombed masses over his shoulders, and looks altogether forbidding in his personal appearance. He has been running an illicit distillery ever since the war, but has never been arrested. When Spurrier and his two companions arrived near Pennington's place, he was on the lookout, as he had been notified that they were coming. He was outside the house with his Springfield rifle, and when he saw the officers began to raise his gun, but Spurrier had the "drop" on him, and he surrendered and gave Springheld rifle, and when he saw the omeers began to raise his gun, but Spurrier had the "drop" on him, and he surrendered and gave bond. His wife, however, at once took hold of the distillery, and swore she would make whisky in spite of the "yankee government."

The rifle that the old man carried was one that the old man carried was one that was carried by his son, who was killed in a feud about a year ago.

We would be pleased to know of a man or woman who has never had headache or been subject to constipation. As these seem to be universal troubles a little advice may be in or-der. Why should persons cram their stomachs with nauseating purgative pills etc. which sicken and debilitate when such a pleasant and stering remedy as Prickly Ash Bitters will act mildly and effectively on the liver, kidney, stomach and bowels, and at the same time tone up and strengthen the whole system, causing headache, constipation and all such distressing evils to quickly disappear. Wreck at Barnesville.

A wreck on the Central, near Barnesville, resterday evening about five o'clock, disarranged the schedules on that road, the Macon train being several hours late. No damage is reported beyond the derailing of several freight cars. They Will Not Strike.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 11 .- The locomotive engineers on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railway system met here tonight, representatives being present from all divisions of the Brotherhood system. Representatives were present from the Queen and Crescent route and from the Louisylile and Nashville railway. The object of the meeting was to decide whether the Brotherhood should order a strike because Engineer Monahan had been discharged for insubordination. After a long discussion of the case, it which all the facts were brought out, the engineers, by an overwhelming vote, decided not to strike. The railway authorities were at once notified tilat no strike would be ordered, and the request for Monahan's reinstatement was withdrawn. The strike would have thrown out: 30 engineers. tive engineers on the East Tennessee, Virginia and by Henry C. Peeples.

Ewing et al. vs. Shropshire, next friend. Injunction, from Floyd. Deeds. Titles. Estates. Defore Judge Maddox.

This case was argued at the last term, and reargued at the present term by order of the court.

Bleckley, C. J.-1. A conveyance by deed Bleckley, C. J.—1. A conveyance by deed of gift from a father to his daughter, executed since the adoption of the code, to-wit, in March, 1877, to which the father and daughter were the only parties, and by which he conveyed certain described realty to her, "and the lawful heirs of her body begotten, to her and their sole and separate use, and free from all debts, liabilities and contracts of her present or any future husband," to have and to hold unto her "and her heirs " to her and them, and their own proper use, benefit and behoof, forever in fee simple," and warranting title to her "and her heirs and their assigns," passed the absolute fee to the daughter alone, and her child, though in life at the time the deed was executed, acquired no estate in the premises, either as tenant in common or as done in remainder.

2. The cases of Whatley vs. Barker and Craig vs. Ambrose, decided at the October term, 1887, in so far as they involve a construction of section 2250 of the code, reviewed and affirmed.

McGowan, executor, vs. Lufburrow. Ejectment, from Chatham. Practice in supreme court. Bill of exceptions.

This case was argued at the last term, and the decision reserved.

Bleckley, C. J.—The code, $4250, declares that "No cause shall be carried to the supreme court upon any bill of exceptions, so long as the same is pending in the court below, unless the decision or judgment complained of, it it had been rendered as claimed by the plaintiff in error, would have been a final disposition of the cause." An action of ejectment, tried on special pleadings as a cause in equity, and in which the verdict of the jury consists only of answers to certain specific questions prowhich the verdict of the jury consists only of answers to certain specific questions propounded by the court, in terms of section 4206 of the code, is still pending in the superior court until the judge shall have made a written judgment and decree upon the verdict; and the supreme court will not exercise jurisdiction of a writ of error brought before, the rendering of such judgment and decree to reverse a judgment refusing a new trial. Leave, however, is granted to enter the bill of exceptions, or the official copy of it retained below, of record, pendente lite, and direction is given accordingly.

ATLANTA, GA., JULY 12, 1888.

Not Free Trade. The charge by the Washington Post which is neither flesh nor fowl politically that the democrats of the country are delib erately dodging the free trade issue, has been promptly taken up by the republican organs and correspondents. General H. V. Boynton, of the Cincinnati Commercial Ga zette, whose little controversy with General Tecumseh Sherman a few years ago imparts a pathetic interest to his personality, writes glowing letter to his paper in regard to the Post's editorial.

He says that all the democratic rats are deserting the free trade ship, jumping into the sea and swimming for dear life. Metaphor is a very fine thing, but facts are much finer things. They are so fine, indeed, that the republicans cannot afford to deal in them to any great extent.

So far as we know there is no free trade ship for the democrats to desert. There are democratic free-traders, but their contingent was not po erful enough to control the St. Louis convention. Editor Watterson has been a free-trader, and he may be one now. but we observe that he is not making any free trade arguments either in his editorials or in his speeches. It is true that he said some time ago that the democratic party "is a free trade party or it is nothing," and that "the democrat who is not a free-trader should join the republicans," but THE Constitution promptly corrected him on these points, and he is today working as tamely and as serenely in democratic harness as the best broken nag in the business.

The republican campaigners can make no capital for their party by quoting the offyear utterances of Editor Watterson. However wild he may be when he is turned out to pasture in the blue-grass region, he is a sure and steady puller when hitched to the old original democratic chariot. Only the other day, in an interview with a New York reporter, Editor Watterson made some very severe comments on the attitude of the democrats of that city and state who sub mitted quietly when the republicans classed them as free-traders.

There is no democratic free trade ship to desert and consequently there are no deserters. The democratic platform calls for a reasonable revision and readjustment of the tariff on a line that will afford adequate protection to American workingmen and merican industries. It is the platform of 1884 over again; the platform that Editor Patrick Walsh and THE CONSTITUTION insisted on; and it is not in the direction of

EDITOR JOSEPH MEDILL, will support Harrison, but he continues to growl a little at intervals, showing that he is uneasy in

The Next Census.

In glancing somewhat perfunctorily over the daily debauch of dullness to be found in the columns of the Congressional Record. we have failed to note what disposition has been made of the bill introduced in the house some time ago by Congressman Cox. This bill provides for the collection of the census reports of 1890, and if it is adopted without any material modification it will reduce the number of census volumes from load on his shoulders. He feels that on his twenty-two to seven. It provides for the tabulation of subjects pertaining to population, public indebtedness, valuation property, and industrial, social and health statistics.

The scale on which the last census was taken was so much out of proportion to the facilities of the government that, although an immense amount of matter has been either curtailed or suppressed, there is still a number of volumes to be printed. The scheme of taking the census of 1880 represented elaboration run mad, and it will probably never be attempted on such a scale again. It fell into the hands of so-called experts and visionaries, and the result has been a costly failure. The vast mass of statistics gathered in the bulky volumes is of no interest whatever, and the fact that the census takers were burdened with the duty of collecting it caused them to neglect more Important matters.

It is to be hoped that a sensible and economical plan will be arranged for the collection of the statistics of the eleventh census, and that the statistics will relate only to such matters as are of general interest and

An "old master" has been found in Nashville. This is a great discovery, but it lacks political significance. What the republicans want is their old boss.

Georgia's Early Cotton. We observe that the Morning News, representing the temperament and disposition of the Savannah cotton exchange, is inclined to be suspicious about the first bale of cotton contributed to the Albany market by your Uncle Primus Jones, of Baker county. It remarks that the cotton men of that city do not take much stock in Primus's first bale business, and goes on to say that "Superintendent Bryan, speaking of the matter, says that it does more harm than good to send out such cotton at so early a date, for it is misleading as to the condition of the growing crop, cotton not being so far advanced as to warrant the picking of a sample bale." Now, it strikes us, as it must strike most people, that the sensitiveness of the Savannah cotton exchange is extremely absurd. We should like very much to know how and where there can be any harm done in marketing an early bale of cotton from Primus Jones's Baker county plantation. If the Savannah cotton exchange is the only organization of cotton men that has trustworthy information in regard to the condition of the growing crop, then Superintendent Bryan's complaint might be supposed to have some sort of basis; but even then, the Savannah cotton exchange could ose a circular and send it to other ex-

But the truth of the matter is that every person in the country interested in the ccton crop has as much information as the Savannah exchange. This is a matter on which there is no copyright. The consequence is that if a new bale were to be marketed in June, it would have no effect whatever in the direction of harm, for the average condition of the crop is noted by thousands of watchful agencies, and their knowledge is common property. We may con-clude, therefore, that the anxiety of the Savannah cotton exchange is wholly un-

There is another side to the question which is of vast importance to the cotton planters in the south. The early bales marketed by Mr. Jones are the results of a series of experiments which he is making in the direction of freeing the crop from the dangers of the cotton worm and from the damage annually inflicted by the September storms. He is engaged in an effort to hasten the maturity of the whole cotton crop, and, by the careful selection of the seed, he is giving the plant a general tendency in that direction, especially in that section where the cotton worm and the September storms do the greatest damage. Under these circumstances it is to be hoped that the Savannah cotton exchange can be prevailed on to at least tolerate Mr. Jones and his early bales, particularly as he is not shipping them to that city any more.

THE Indianapolis Journal offers to give away $1,000 if anybody can prove that Harrison made a certain remark. The probability is that the republicans will need this money in Indiana during the campaign.

An Unjust Attack.

Editor Richardson, of the Macon Telegraph, complains of the weather reports from his city. He says:

The weather bureau is kinder to Atlanta. The ord of its daily temperature is taken from a ther meter kept in the observatory of the government building, which stands on the breeziest height in the city. The conditions there are as exception-ally favorable as they are exceptionally adverse in

It is a common thing to see in the "official" reather reports atlanta recorded as four degrees color than Toccoa, Gainesville, or Greenville, S. C. Now, all sensible people know that such statements cannot be relied on. The value of the weather reports is totally destroyed and injustice is done to various localities because this business is done in a oose and unscientific way. Now, Editor Richardson knows very well that Atlanta is an exceptionally cool place. During the summer we always have cool mornings and nights, and it is a rare thing for the thermometer to run very high up in the nineties. All things considered, Atlanta is a better summer resort than any city of its size in the country. This is so well known that it is hardly necessary to say anything about it.

THE republican party appears to be in the condition of the Keely motor. The vibrator refuses to vibrate.

Scientific Specific for Intemperance. Dr. William H. Morse, in an article in the North American Review on a scientific specific for intemperance, says: "The ills of intemperance can be avoided by abstinence from liquors vile with fusil oil, and by the use-rather moderate or excessiveof those that are free from it. If men will drink alcoholic beverages, let them be those which are pure, and by reason of their purity, will not be a factor in the ruin of body and soul. Let the cupidity of the manufacturer and dealer be checked by a law which shall make it a crime to produce sell or use the poisonous liquors; and let encouragement be given to those who shall undertake to provide pure ethylic alcoholic beverages, harmless to the brain, medicinal in value, deficient in toxiety. Such prohibition, married with such encouragement, will appoint the only scientific specific for the evil of intemperance."

Your Uncle Johncy New, of Indianapolis, is capering around with a tremendous activity depends republican success this year. He is literally on the ragged edge.

Summer Excursions. The summer excursion is one of the factors of civilization.

It is something more—it tends to make ur people more homogeneous.

Forty or fifty years ago the average citizen in Georgia looked upon his brother in Vermont as an alien-a foreigner, who spoke a different language and was devoted o opposing interests.

But cheap passenger rates have changed all this. The Georgian has found that life n Vermont does not differ very much from life in Georgia, and on the other hand, the northern farmer has found that the people down this way live very much as his father and grandfather did in the good old times. The cheap rates offered by our summer excursions bring distant peoples near to each other. They bridge the chasm, if any exists between the sections. Perhaps it is unnecessary to say anything more in their favor. The bare statement of such results carries conviction, and will enlist the active sympathy of all thoughtful citizens. W. W. DUDLEY will aid the republican campaigners this year. There is also a call for Dorsey.

MRS. CLEVELAND EATS meat only once day at this time of year. For her breakfast she always has eggs in some form, toast, coffee and berries or melons. For lunch she eats lobsters, crabs or fish and a salad of lettuce or tomatoes. She is also very fond of asparagus with sauce tartare. She eats meat at dinner. Of the roast she takes a piece well cooked and covers it with gravy. She is very partial to soups, and cold consomme is a favorite with her just now. Iced tea she drinks at odd times during the day. Late in the evening she is very apt to order an Apollinaries lemonade. This is the latest information imparted by Jenkins.

THE FOLLOWING PRESIDENTIAL Statistics from the New York Sun, will be of interest to our readers: "There have been three or more candidates in the field at a majority of the presidential elections since the formation of the republican party. In 1856 we had three andidates, Buchanan, Fremont, and Fillmore In 1860 we had four candidates, Lincoln, Doug-las, Breckinridge, and Bell. In 1864 three candidates were nominated, Lincoln, McClellan, and Frement, but the last named withdrew before the election. In 1868 we had two candidates, Grant and Seymour, and also in 1872, Grant and Greeley, and also in 1876, Hayes and Tilden. In 1880 we had three candidates, and Tilden. In 1880 we had three candidates, Garfield, Hancock, and Weaver. In 1884 we had four candidates, Blaine, Cleveland, Butler, and St. John. In 1888 we have the republican candidate, Harrison, the democratic candidate, Cleveland, four side-show candidates, date, Cleveland, four side-show candidates, Fiske (prohibitionist), Streeter (labor), Cowdry (land tax), and Mrs. Belva Lockwood (female suffrage). Thus, this year, we have six of them in all, or a larger number than ever before. If we go back prior to the origin of the republican party, we find presidential elections n which there were three or more candidates. In 1848 there were three candidates, Taylor, Cass, and Van Buren. In 1836, when Van Case, and van Buren. In 1880, when van Buren was the successful candidate, he was opposed by Harrison and White, while Webster got the vote of Massachusetts, and Mangum that of South Carolina. In the election of 1824 there were four candidates, Jackson, Adams, Crawford, and Clay. At that time Jackson received the largest number of elec-toral votes, but not a majority, and the choice devolved upon the house of representatives, which elected John Quincy Adams."

GENERAL FITZHUGH LEE made a good hit at the Gettysburg reunion. He said that two abies were born near each other in Kentucky. One was Abraham Lincoln and the other was Jefferson Davis. If they had exchanged their environment, Davis might have been Lincoln, and Lincoln might have been Davis.

Take a cold bath in water in which salt has been dissolved, daily, rubbing vigorously with a flesh brush afterward. Take calisthenics exercises with sufficient vigor to start profuse perspiration twice daily, subbing down as after bath. Eat meat, acid fruits and graham bread. THE NEW YORK Tribune speaks as ollows of Governor Gordon's address at Gettysburg. Considering that it comes from the most prominent of all republican organs, it will be read with special interest in the

No yords could have been more graceful and impressive an those in which he praised his northern foes, or ore sincere than those in which he pledged the earts and hands of his comrades to the union as it low stands. When he said that the south as well as the north consecrated the field of Gettysburg to the integrity and indissolubility of the states, the wildest enthusiasm broke loose. Staid old veterans on the rostrum stood up to swing their hats in the air, and the rank and file on the lawn made the tattered remnants of old army banners shake

Previous Siatements Referred to. Editors Constitution: Please allow me o correct the statement as made by your Macon orrespondent in your issue of yesterday, relative to ble between the Central railroad and th Atlanta and Florida railroad at Fort Valley. dently Hon. Claude Estes was in error in his statement to your correspondent.

The Atlanta and Florida road is now graded up to the right-of way of the Southwestern railroad, not in a half mile of the town, as stated, but immediately in the town and within about two hundred yards of the yard limits of the Southwestern rail-

The Atlanta and Florida never proposed arbitra The Atlanta and Florida never proposed arbitra-rily to occupy the Southwestern right of way on this side of their yard. New York, July 11.—[Special.]—For the last ten days various influences have been brought to bear to induce Calvin L. Brice, the great railroad magnate, to accept the chairmanship of the national committee of the democratic party. Mr. Brice has had the matter under serious consideration, but today announced his inability to accept.

Your correspondent asked him today if he was willing to assign any reason, for his declination of the honor which the leaders of his party had tendered him. He replied: "My only reason, that my engagements will not allow raw to take an error and engrossing a of the Southwestern railroad as would be least objectionable to that road, and willing they should be the judges. The Central railroad authorities refused to enter into any arrangement whatever to let the Atlanta and Florida occupy on either side of their tracks. Under these circumstances, as a last resort, we could only resort to the power of our chartered privileges. After commencing the necessary proceedings to condemn a portion of the land, I then asked General Manager Belknap to please indicate which line he preferred that I should seek to condemn. This he also refused to do.

We have never been offered any portion of their right of way on the side of their tracks opposite the Harris house block, as stated. We asked for this, and it was denied us. I further state that my examination of the deeds of the Southwestern Railroad company reveals the fact that they do not own, as a right of way or otherwise, the road or street lying between their tracks and the Harris house block as claimed and the occupation of this land by their recently constructed temporary or blocking side tracks is wholly contrary to law.

The Atlanta and Florida has at no time attempted my sharp practice in this matter. Neither have they sought to act in an arbitrary manner, but, on the contrary, have treated the Central people with overy courte sy, and have endeavored by all possible means to effect an entrance in Fort Valley upon amicable terms. Our grading forces were disbanded after we reached the Southwestern railroad right of way when we might have graded on, as it was not until after three or four days had elapsed before they seemed to discover that we were up to their road. Then they immediately put a large force at work putting in a series of temporary or blocking side tracks, using old decayed stringers for cross ties and old worn out iron in their construction, not waiting for any engineering, but running them over guillies, bumps, etc., as well as material used, evidences to any reasonable mind that the sole purpose is to block

Gentlemen.

I remember, writes T. W. Higginson in the July Forum, that, when spending a winter in the Island of Faval, where more of the old European tradition then survived than in Europe itself, I was struck with the great courtesy of the Portuguese gen-try, among whom it was the custom to uncover the head to every lady they saw, whether they knew her or not. On speaking of this fact to one of the really high bred ladies of the American fam-ily of Dabney, then residing on that island, she said of these youths: "They impose upon you they are not really gentlemen; they have not even the material in them out of which gentlemen can be made." And when later I watched these same young Portuguese caracoling through the streets of horseback and carelessly riding over a peasant roman or a child in their solicitude to be admired by the ladies on the balcony I saw the truth of the criticism. On the other hand, those who watched the late Mr. Charles Dabney—the head of the family just named, and our American consul for so many years at Fayal—saw fine manners that were ingrain, manners which to eall princely were to flatter princes unduly; for while he could outdo the Portuguese at their own game of courtliness, he had precisely the same lofty grace for every barefoot boy who laid down his orange basket to salute him. In the same way, I remember, I used to enjoy walking in the street behind the street forms of the lets Sanuel Powell of Nav. family just named, and our American consul for so the stately figure of the late Samuel Powell, of Newport, and seeing him salute millionaires and old apple women with precisely the same high-bred courtesy. These men afforded types of the very best American manners, a manner which extended to the humblest those amenities that elsewhere are graduated by the trivial distinction of social rank

He Liked Exercise.

From the Troy Times A good story is related at the expense of a hotel proprietor at Tacoma, Washington territory. A stranger, who had been stopping at the house for a few weeks, asked the proprietor how far it was to Mount Ranier, which appeared to be only a coupl of miles distant, although, in fact, it was nearly 100.
The proprietor winked at the bystanders, and said that perhaps it was a mile away. The boarder said e believed he would walk out to it for exercise The landlord encouraged the "tenderfoot," who, after borrowing the proprietor's fine field glass, immediately started. The joke was too rich for the hotel man to keep, and he treated all hands. But the pedestrian did not return. The landlord at last became suspicious and found that the valies which the 'tenderfoot' had left was filled with brickbats, and that he had carried off seventeen towels and everything else that he could get into his pockets. besides this he owed a two-week's board bill. He probably still walking.

Alien Landholders.

From the Argonaut. Very few people have any idea of the vast areas of government land held by alien landholders in the United States. The largest tract, 4,500,000 acres, is held by the Holland company, of New Mexico. An English syndicate holds 3,000,000 acres in Texas; Sir Edward Reid and a syndicate in Florida own 2,000,000 acres; 1,800,000 acres beloug an English syndicate in Mississippi; 1,750,000 to the Marquis of Tweeddale; 1.300,000 to the Phillips Marshall company, of London, and 1,500,000 acres to a German syndicate. These comprise the larger landholders. There are, however, a score or more of persons and syndicates owning less than 750,000 acres. The grand total foots up to 20,747,000 acres of government land held by aliens in the United States.

Business-Like, but Unromantic. From the Glens Falls Star Richard Welch, of Hampton, Washington county, a married man, became infatuated with a fair charmer in the neighborhood. He didn't pack up his belongings and "skip" with the charmer un der cover of darkness, but went into the business in a business-like way. He offered to give his wife all of his property if she would give him $250 and release all claims upon him as her husband. Afte considering the proposition Mrs. Welch took a sensible view of the affair and consented to let her worthless partner go. The bargain was accordingly closed, and Welch and his inamorata have his themselves to parts unknown.

the exact marriage status of the duke is dubious to say the least. Whether it would be declared valid or invalid depends largely upon the place where the question is raised. In this state it would probably be decided invalid and in England possibly valid.

It seems absurd to think his grace of Marlborough is, perhaps, guilty of bigamy, but so it seems upon considering the law of this state.

The Goelet estate as a whole must much exceed $20,000,000. Then there are the Standard oil fortunes of the two Rockefellers and Mr. Flagler, each of whom can safely be estimated now at more than that sum, and they are rapidly increasing. Heber R. Bishop can be set down as worth more, and probably D. O. Mills also. Plerpont Morgan's fortune is supposed by those best informed as to such matters to be greater than a score of millions, and Mrs. Hetty Green is not forced to the Our correspondent's knowledge as to the subpresidential campaign.

These by no means complete the list, and if we were to include the fortunes between $10,-000,000 and $20,000,000, and which are increas-ng at a rapid rate, like that of Austin Corbin and that of Henry H. Rogers, it would be long, while if we took on those between five and ten millions, and also steadily accumulating, it would be surprisingly great to men who are so ignorant as to the subject as our correspondent second to be Probably too some if you many ignorant as to the subject as our correspondent seems to be. Probably, too, some if not many of the names would be utterly unknown to him, for there are possessors of such fortunes in New York whose reputation in that respect does not extend beyond a very limited circle, because of the comparative seclusion in which they live, and which enables them without noticity to add largely to their accomplations. toriety to add largely to their accumulations very year.

There are men in New York with fortunes annual expenses for living do not exceed a tenth or a twentieth part of their annual incomes. It is easy to see how rapidly they must be piling up money. Even when they keep up a more costly state and maintain establishments that are relatively extravagant, according to our American standards, they do not lay out on them a great sum of money comparatively to their incomes. After elegant com-fort has been secured it does not take many thousand dollars a year to add what seems to thousand donars a year to add what seems to the public lavish display.

A man who spends $50,000 a year solely on his living and the keeping up of his establish-ment becomes conspicious in New York for the grandeur of his state as a social character. of course, many families may spend much more in the buying of costly pictures and other articles of rarities, but these are of the nature of investments, and are not a part of the cost of living. Others, too, may keep yachts, maintained at an enormous expenditure, recording to the average estimate. and the improvement of country places may eat up a vast amount of money, so that they get rid of twice as much; but the first is outside of the ordinary living expenses, and the second counts only as an investment. If a man comes to New York, whe and prepared to average of the country of th to New York able and prepared to expend on his household alone $50,000 a year, he can cut a great figure so far as his more expenditures go, though socially he may remain so insignifi-cant that he will throw his money away. Therefore it is that American estates grow so rapidly, especially as is so often the where they are accumulated by men of modest where they are accumulated by men of modess social pretensions or no social ambition whatever. Even if they have the ambition, and gratify it at the cost it entails, they do not make heavy inroads into the income from millions of dollars. John Jacob Astor is by far the richest man in America, and yet the expenses of his actual the second of the secon and yet the expenses of his actual living cannot much exceed the sum we have named as enough for an elegant household. Hence he is yearly investing, and investing with great sagacity, all beyond a very insignificant part of his income. His expendituses are healthy consists occurry the living the same of t tures are hardly enough to count, but his investments in land, for whose development and productiveness the Astors can afford to wait, and in other securities are enormous and con-

The Vanderbilts and the Goelets spend much more of their incomes proportionately ut after all, only a small part of them, and but after all, only a small part of them, and Mr. Gould, reputed to be now richer than over in substantial property, lives on a scale which requires only an insignificant sum, as compared with his revenues from investments and speculation. The same applies to the very rich men of New York generally. What they are expending is a trifle by the side of what they are requiring and making. It is also to be reexpending is a trille by the side of what they are receiving and making. It is also to be remembered that profuse expenditure is no guarantee of solid wealth, and modest living does not always imply its absence.

Accordingly the number of the many times millionaires in New York, whither the richest men from all parts of the new world more and more tend, is so constantly increasing that our correspondent will need a long sheet of paper to write the list neon as the very set he to write the list upon as the years go by.

A DYNAMITE CONSPIRACY.

Writ of Habeas Corpus in the Case of Hoge's Clerks. Hoge's Clerks.

Chicago, July 11.—Judge Algeld today is sued a writ of habeas corpus commanding Chief of Police Hubbard to produce J. K. Kelly and John McGillvary from the dungeon of central police station, where, it is claimed, they have been unlawfully detained, and not permitted to see counsel. The men are clerks of Chairman Hoge, and were arrested in connection with the alleged Burlington dynamite plot.

The writ was subsequently dismissed and Frank Collier, attorney for the "Q" company, read affidavits from the two prisoners stating they had each made a statement in writing to the attorneys of the company, and desired to remain in the custody of the police for protection. In addition to the affidavits the men themselves, were howeful into compare and themselves were brought into court and acknowledged a wish to continue in custody. They were fashionably dressed and looked as if they had just got out of a barber's chair. The application for the writ was made by Donahue and David, attorneys for the strikers. Each of the two prisoners denied that he had given these attorneys or any one authority apply for a writ of habeas corpus.

The Intelligent Compositor From the New York Times.

There have been twenty-six suicides from the Clifton bridge in England in the twenty-slur years since it was built. The jump is 250 feet, and death is presumably easy, which accounts for the popularity of the route. The last person who went over it was a young man who was to be married in a week. The art of proof-reading, which exists in a very crude state in this country, has been brought to a high degree of perfection by the London Times. Five years ago Lord Winchelsea made a bet that he would find thirty misprints in six numbers of the Times. The stakes were $500 and $50 additional for every blunder additional, more orless. Six numbers were taken at random, and three misprints were discovered. Lord Winchelsea lost nearly $2.000. What a boon the Times proof-reader would be to most editors. A Word About the Mexicans.

Of course everybody intends to hear the Mexican band before it leaves. There is probably hardly a man or woman in Atlanta, who can raise sixty-five cents, who does not intend to go out and hear the Mexicans before they go for good.

There are just three more days in which to enjoy this treat. They will then leave Atlana for New Orleans, thence to Mexico and thence to the Paris exposition. Those who intend to go out, see this beautiful Chautauqua grounds and hear this wonderful music, should not delay a day. To accommodate everybody, two concerts have been arranged for today: one at 2.30 fo those who wish to return to the city at 5 o'clock one at 6.30 to accommodate those who canno leave the city until 5 o'clock. ### GREAT FORTUNES.

Men Wealthier than A. T. Stewart.

John Jacob Astor is the Richest Man in America, But Thereare Other New Yorkers Very Wealthy.

From the Chicago Herald.

The information asked for in this letter will probably be of general interest. In speaking of the fortune of the late A. T. Stew-In speaking of the fortune of the late A. T. Stew., art you say hat it was vastly inferior to those of Messia Astor, Vanderbilt, Gould and Taylor, and beddes these there are now several estates and fortunes in New York which are greater than his," which you estimate very properly, I think, at which you please state whose estates and fortunes these are, as I am at a loss to remember any one having more or as much as $2,000,000.

Our correspondent's knowledge as to the subject must be very limited, for the names of several possessors of such fortunes at once occur to us, replies the New York Sun. The Goelet estate as a whole must much exceed $20,000,000. Then there are the Standard oil fortunes of the two Rockefellers and Mr. Flagler, each of whom can safely be estimated now at more than that sum, and they are rapidly increasing. Heber R. Bishop can be set down as worth more; and probably D. O. Mills also. Pierpont Morgan's fortune is supposed by those best informed as to such matters to be greater than a score of millions, and Mrs. Hetty Green is not forced to the rigid economy she practices, for doubtless she has more than the sum at which we estimated the Stewart estate. Then there are Messrs. Amos R. Eno, Andrew Carnegie, Percy R. Pyne, Charles R. Pratt, Jabez A. Bostwick Herman O. Armour, each of whom is reported to have $20,000,000 and over.

These by no means complete the list, and if we were to include the fortunes between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000, and which are increasing at a rapid rate, like that of Austin Corbin and that of Henry H. Rogers, it would be long, while if we took on those between five and ten millions, and also steadily accumulating, it would be surprisingly great to men who are to ignorant as to the subject as our correspondent seems to be. Probably, too, some if not many of the names would be utterly unknown to him, for there are possessors of such fortunes in New York whose reputation in that respect does not extend beyond a very limited circle, because of the comparative seclusion in which they live, and which enables them without notoricty to add largely to their accumulations every year.

There are men in New York with fortunes annual expenses for living do not exceed a tenth or a twentieth part of their annual incomes. It is easy to see how rapidly they must be piling up money. Even when they keep up a more costly state and maintain establishments that are relatively extravagant, according to our American standards, they do not gt o our American standards, they do not y out on them a great sum of money compar-vely to their incomes. After elegant com-thas been secured it does not take many oussand dollars a year to add what seems to a public layiel display.

thousand dollars a year to add what seems to the public lavish display. A man who spends $50,000 a year solely on his living and the keeping up of his establishment becomes conspicious in New York for the grandeur of his state as a social character. Of course, many families may spend much more in the buying of costly pictures and other articles of rarticles, but these are of the nature of invastments, and are not a part of the cost of investments, and are not a part of the cost of living. Others, too, may keep yachts, maintained at an enormous expenditure, eccording to the average estimate, and the improvement of country places may eat up a vast amount of money, so that they get rid of twice as much; but the first is outside of the ordinary living expenses, and the second counts only as an investment. If a man comes to New York able and prepared to expend on his household alone $30,000 a year, he can cut a great figure so far as his more expenditures go, though socially he may remain so insignificant that he will throw his money away.

Therefore it is that American estates grow so rapidly, especially as is so often the case f investments, and are not a part of the cost

Therefore it is that American estates grow so rapidly, especially as is so often the case where they are accumulated by men of modest social pretensions or no social ambition whatever. Even if they have the ambition, and gratify it at the cost it entails, they do not nake heavy inreads into the income from millions of dollars. John Jacob Astor is by far the richest man in America, and yet the expenses of his actual living cannot much exceed the sum we have named as enough for an elegant household. Hence he is yearly investing, and investing with great sagacity, all beyond a very insignificant part of his income. His expenditures are hardly enough to count, but his investments in land, for whose development and productiveness the Astors can afford to wait, and in other securities are enormous and continuous.

The Vanderbilts and the Goelets spend much more of their incomes proportionately, but after all, only a small part of them, and Mr. Gould, reputed to be now richer than ever in substantial property, lives on a scale which requires only an insignificant sum, as compared with his revenues from investments and speculation. The same applies to the very rich men of New York generally. What they are expending is a trifle by the side of what they are expending is a trifle by the side of what they are expending and making. It is also to be remembered that profuse expenditure is no guarantee of solid wealth, and modest living does not always imply its absence.

Accordingly the number of the many times millionaires in New York, whither the richest men from all parts of the new world more and more tend, is so constantly increasing that our correspondent will need a long sheet of paper to write the list upon as the years go by.

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 11.-|Special.]-There was a sudden change in the basebull situation today. President Young, of the Charleston club, decides to keep all his men. According to the schedule Birmingham is due here According to the schedule Birmingham is due here on Saturday next, to play five schedule games. President Young, therefore, has decided to keep his team together. If Birmingham shows up on Saturday, the two clubs will finish out the season or come to a mutual understanding. If Birmingham fails to appear President Young will claim the forfeit $1,000 for each game, and will also claim the balance of the guarantee money in the lengue treasury, amounting to $2,400. It is thought this makes the situation fively. President Young is out about $7,000 on the season, and he says he is going to see it through if it takes all the summer and a good deal more of his wealth. The players had actually made arrangements to go off when this decision was arrived at. Everybody is auxiously looking for Saturday and Birmingham.

A Preacher Who is Satisfied That He is the Murderer.

RALEIGH, N. C., July 11.—[Special.]—Strange to say, interest in case of "Scott" Partin is again at fever heat, though there is no positive approach to identification. Today Rev. O. Churchill, of Haywood, who knew Partin well, was in the city, and called to see the prisoner. As soon as he saw him he said, "Good morning, Partin. Glad to see you back. Do you know me?" The prisoner averted his head, and said, "No." The reverend gentleman's wrath appears to have been kindled at the response, and he flatly told the prisoner he was a "Har." "You do know me," said the preacher. "Don't you remember the last time we met, and that you helped me to repair the break in my buggy." The prisoner glanced at the gentleman, but turued away his eyes at once, and said: "I was born in Ireland." "You are a liar," again shouted the augry parson, and left the prisoner. Mr. Churchill positively declares the man to be Partin, and says he knew him so well, formerly, that it is impossible that he should be mistaken." ly, that it is impossible that he should be mis-taken. The parson's identification does not appear to be satisfactory, however, and enthu-siastic sympathizers for the prisoner speak of a writ of habeas corpus for him.

The Boyle Case Decided.

Montgomery, Ala., July 11.—[Special.]—
The supreme court of Alabama today decided the famous Boyle case. In 1875 Bartholomew Boyle was killed in a railroad accident at Boyle's Gap, on the Louisville and Nashville railroad. He had been associated in business with John T. Milner and R. H. Kelly. His estate was administered on and declared insolvent. Milner and Kelly filed claims against the estate amounting to $40,000. The claims were not disputed, but went on unsettled until a lapse of ten years. Mrs. Boyle married and became Mrs. N. H. Wyene. The lands belonging to the Boyle estate were located in and around Birmingham, and increased in value, and are now valued at two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. Some months ago, Milner and Kelly entered suit in the probate court of Montgomery to force the sale of the Boyle lands to justify their claims. The probate court decided that the claims were barred by the statute of limitations, and the supreme court sustains that decision. The Boyle Case Decided.

A Mistrial Ordered.

Charleston, S. C., July 11.—Mistrial was ordered today in the case of five colored men in Pickeus county, who lynched a white mau on the charge of having committed a criminal assault upon a young colored girl, who died from the effects. The man was a young farm laborer, said to be half-witted, and against whom there was but very weak circumstantial evidence. The case is notable as being the evidence. The case is notable as being the first in which a white man was lynched by negroes for assaulting a colored girl.

A Good, Healthy, Comfortable Position. "Things that never die," is the title of a magazine poem. We have searched in vain, however, for any mention of the man who sticks to the end seat of an open horse car.

Teeth that loosen through ill-health May be rendered more secure, Flaccid gums and fetid breath Soon grow healthy, sweet and pure.

A Dead Man in Ohio Identified by a Ragged Scrap of Paper.

John Snider, of the Atlanta Glass Works Killed Near Shelby, O.-A Letter From the Postmaster.

An Atlanta man was killed two or three days ago on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad about five miles south of Shelby, Ohio. The man was sitting on the track with his back turned towards the approaching train at the time he was struck, and he was killed instantly. It is supposed that the man was asleep, as the whistle was blown and bell rung, but no attention was paid. The body was terribly mutilated, and the only clue to identification was a worn and blood-soaked scrap of paper in one of the pockets After waiting as long as possible for the rel-atives of the dead man to claim the body, the stranger was buried in Oakland cemetery, near Shelby.

near Shelby.

The little scrap of paper fell into the hands of Mr. S. S. Bloom, the postmaster at Shelby, and was by him forwarded to the postmaster in Atlanta.

It is a "transfer card" furnished by the Glassworkers' union. The card is in eight or ten pieces from long wear, and the pieces had been pasted in their proper position on a sheet.

This was enclosed in the following letter: "Shelby, Ohlo, July 9, 1883.—Postmaster, Atlanta, Ga., Sir: A strange man was killed near this place on the Baltimore and Ohlo railroad. The enclosed card was found on his person—all that was found to tell who he was.

Please hand this letter and card to some one in authority to hunt up this matter and report to us. The secretary of the A. I. F. Glass Blower's association can undoubtedly give the name from his records. Perhaps if the item were given to the papers, the relatives could be discovered.

The Constitution has subscribers at this office. If they give any information, I wish they would send me a copy. The man was about 35 years old, five feet, ten linches in height, weight about 160 pounds; sandy mustache, sandy complexion. He was sitting on the track of the Baltimore and Ohlo railroad, about five miles south of Shelby, and instantly killed by the mail train. Body brought to Shelby and buried in Oakland cemetery. Mr. Bowden, president of the local union, and the gentleman whose name appears on the certificate, was found at his home near the glassworks yesterday.

He was shown the card and the letter. Referring to his books he found that last August a glass blower named John Snider left the glass works and was given a transfer card.

"Yes," said Mr. Bowden, as he read over the description, "that was poor John Snider. It tallies exactly, and the name fits that on the paper. He was a fine workman and very pop-It tallies exactly, and the name fits that on the paper. He was a fine workman and very popular among his associates here. I think that when he left Atlanta some time ago he went to Trauntima, or some such place, in Pennsylvania. The firm of Chandler & Taylor, of that place, can tell you something about him."

A number of glass blowers were present at Mr. Bowden's house yesterday, and they all remember Snider. They can't speak a word of English, but judging from their accents

The transfer card will be turned over to Mr. Bowden and by him forwarded to the relatives of Snider in Pennsylvania.

A TOMBSTONE The Only One in the Potter's Field at West view Cemetery.

There is to be a tombstone in the potter's field at Westview cemetery.

The cemetery officials at first refused to allow the monument to be put up, but they have changed their minds now and the tombstone will go up.

George Haltiwanger, a railroad employe, was killed on March 3, 1887. His cousin, Mr. A. J. Haltiwanger, the druggest, of this city, had the body buried in the potter's field at Westview. The intention was to give the body a temporary burial, but it was decided later to leave the body in Westview and to erect a monument over it.

When the monument was all ready to be put up, an application was made to the West-when the monument was all ready to be put up, an application was made to the Westview company for a foundation. Mr. Haltwanger was told that a monument could not be allowed in the pauper's field. The matter was at once carried before the officers of the company, and yesterday they decided that the monument could be put up, even though such a thing had payer been done before. a thing had never been done before. It is likely, too, that such a thing will never be done again.

The inscription reads:

A Claim Agent Sent Up for Six Months for Being Too Smart.

CHICAGO, July 11.—The rulings of law in the anarchist case by Judge Gary, that sent Spies and his comrades to the gallows, were turned today by another Chicago judge, Kirk Hawes—against the agents, attorneys and chief officials of one of the wealthiest corporations in the country. The offense in this case was attempted jury bribing, and the main offender, Sumner C. Welch, claim agent of the Chicago City railway, is sentenced to six months' imprisonment, while C. B. Holmes, president of the company, and C. M. Hardy, the company's attorney, are recommended to be dealt with by the grand jury.

Chicago City railway is perhaps the largest corporation of the kind in the country. President Holmes is a very prominent, wealthy citizen, and Attorney Hardy is a leading member of the bar. The bribery was in an insignificant little damage suit against the company. Welch approaching one of the jurors, named Rosenthal, during the court recess, and endeavoring to retain, by money, his services in the interest of the company. Rosenthal indignantly refused, voted for the highest verdict against the corporation, and afterwards exposed the business to attorneys for the plaintiff.

A Runaway Team in Augusta.

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 11.—[Special.]—A runaway resulting in an unusual accident occurred here today. A country wagon was runaway with by two young mules who went pell mell down Broad street. In front of the store of John Dochez & Co., a delivery wagon was standing. The borse with his head to the street and the rear of the wagon with his head to the street and the rear of the wagon struck against the payement. As the runaway team approached the horse attached to the delivery wagon was frightened and ran right in front of the mules. He was knocked down, the wagon shaft was broken and the mules and wagon passed right over him, infleting severe and painful injuries. No damage resulted to the runaway team.

An Available Man,

"Then why do you wish to appoint me?"
"Because no one has called you honest. My dear Gribble, a man's downfall dates from the time Honest Bill, or Honest Dick, or honest anything else, is thrust upon him. The thief deceives no one, Mr. Gribble. It is the man who prides himself upon his honesty that leaves the treasury of a state as limp as a dish-rag. I must appoint you, sir." SING LEE AND LEE SING.

"Lee Sing, disorderly conduct and quarrel-

"Lee Sing, disorderly conduct and quarreling."

"Sing Lee, same."

The name didn't have anything to do with it. Lee Sing lives on Pryor street, and Sing Lee lives on Marietta. It seems that Lee Sing owes some money to Sing Lee, and was just about to skip the town when Sing Lee got on to him. Lee Sing is a little Chinaman, not much, if any, over five feet high, and Sing Lee was having things his own way. He grabbed Lee Sing and held him until the prisoner got a brick bat and began using it.

There never was such a fight before.

When the policemen came up, each of the Chinamen had a brick in each hand, and were carsing and gesticulating in a jerky, celestial fashion that will be hard to portray in recorder's court this morning.

When the cases were entered on the city docket, the stationhouse keeper kept his pen raised resolutely for fully a minute, and then asked thoughtfully:

"Is a Chinaman white or black?"

There were six answers given—three on one side and three on the other.

side and three on the other. They were entered as "white."

They had been released upon their own recognizance, but when the time came to appear they did not appear. The fathers of the two boys were present, and stated that their sons had left the city, but they wanted to plead guilty for them. A fine of $10.75 was entered against each for contempt of court, and the police instructed to arrest the boys as soon as they returned to the city.

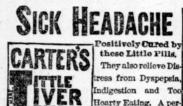

A negro named Sylvanus Jennings was arrested yesterday by Mounted Officers Goodson and Hitson. The officers chased the darky all the way from the depot to West End before they caught him. The charge is assault with intent to murder.

Will Epperson, or Will Buffington, was arrested by Captain Wright yesterday and a charge entered against him for carrying concealed weapons.

Gentlemen—I have been a sufferer with kidney troubles for seventeen years, and have been treated by prominent physicians of this state and Alabama. I have used large quantities of medicines advertised to cure blood and kidney diseases without receiving the slightest benefit. About six weeks ago I, suffered such intense pain—scarcely being able to breathe at times—I concluded to try "Hunnicutt's Rheumatic Cure," and after using one bottle was entirely and arsolutely cured, and for the first time in seventeen years I am without the slightest pain, and earnestly recommend all who suffer to give your cure a trial. ROYAL BAKING POWDER.

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

For quick raising, the Royal Baking Powder is superior to all other leavening agents. It is absolutely pure and wholesome and of the highest leavening power. It is always uniform in strength and quality and never fails to make light, sweet, most palatable and nutritive food. Bread, biscuits, muffins, cake, etc., raised with Royal Baking Powder may be eaten hot without distressing results to the most delicate digestive organs. It will keep in any climate without deterioration.

Prof. H. A. Mott, U. S. Government Chemist, after examining officially the principal baking powders of the country, reported:

"The Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure, for I have so found it in many tests made both for that company and the United States Government.

"Because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportions of the same, and the method of its preparation, the Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public.

Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The stock market was a little more active today, but the increased business was confined to transactions of the first hour, after which the market was comparatively dull, dealings which the market was comparatively dull, dealings for the other four hours scarcely equalling those of the first hour. The tone of the market was again quite feverish, and indications of free realizations were plentiful. Notwithstanding the buying prices failed to advance to any marked extent. Traders, many of whom have lately been on the bull side of the market, were free sellers all around the room, but London was a tuyer, as was Chicago, and the pressure exerted upon the list served to keep prices from advancing much, but made some impression. m advancing much, but made some impr. from advancing much, our made some infreely by for-lonisville and Nashville was bought freely by for-eigners, and it is the only stock showing marked improvement this evening. THE CHICAGO MARKET. Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions. Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, July 11—Business was brisk again on 'Chango-today. The action of the wheat market was doubtful early, but a firm undertone helped by bullish cables, developed into a regular advance in prices later in the day. Clearances in New York were but 8,000 bushels, and this, with a recollection of improved condition of home crops reported yesterday, made the bulls cautious and encouraged some sellers who helieved the government figures. some sellers, who believed the government figures would have more effect today than they did on Tuesday. Later cables, public and private, con-firmed the reports of snow in England and very bad weather on the continent. Foreigners were said to be buyers here and at New York. Report about boat loads taken for export differed from 5 to 25 boats, but the effect was bullish. The short element in the pit took little fright after 12 o'clock. A heavy speculator who was not able to be on the floor stood by his long wheat. When the crowd got a desire to by his long wheat. When the crown got a desart to buy there was little for sale, and July was at a big premium over Argust. The price of August, which ranged carly between 80c and 80% c and at noon was about the close of last night, 30%, suddenly started upward, and in a few minutes touched 811/c. This was followed by a lull and return to $1@81½ c when, twenty minutes before the close the second bulge took place. The bull feeling prevailed up to the very close, and prices at 1 o'clock p. m. were the very close, and prices at 1 o'clock p. m. were the outside for the session, with August 1½c over last night, at 81%c. The other futures closed: July 83%c; Seatember 81½c; December 83½c.

The corn market was quiet compared with wheat. There were some elements of strength in the situation, but prices barely held their own at the close for early futures, while the feature of the pit was the low price of October. The lowest prices of the day were at the of the early dip in wheat, when August tayloled 48%c reacted to 49%c, the outside price of touched 48%, reacted to 49%, the outside price of the session, and at the close it was the same as last night, 49%. July sold at 45% to open and 40 to close. October from 48% to 48c and closed at 48%, or %e lower.

In oats favorable crop weather and indications that July contracts had been pretty well filled caused a heavy early market. July ranged 1½ clower than yes'erday's closing, but at the decline the demand aite vigorous again, and there was a 1c reaction. The clasing was steady and only 1½c lower. August declined ½c during the early weakness and reacted 3c. The other deliveries average about ½c lower. Considerable interest was manifested in the market for hog products, and an increased speculative business was transacted. The general surrounce of trade were savorable to a weaker market, rec of hogs being literal and prices lower, while the advances from depending markets were less favorable to holders. Under these circumstances there wes considerable desire to sell products for August and September deliveries, especially by leading local operators and manufacturers, while the demand was not particularly urgent, excepting from shorts. Prices for all the leading articles declined materially during the middle of the session, but toward the market showed more steadiness in a general way and pricef railied again. Pork declined 40@45c, but rallied 10@15c. The decline in lard amounted to only 5@71/3c, but was wholly regained. Short ribs fell off 71/2010c, but rallied later 21/205c. The following was the range in the leading futures in Chicago today:

WHEAT— Opening Highest Closing 831/8 813/4 811/4 August.... September OATS-July ..... August .... September PORK-

7 521/6 7 521/4 7 621/2 Markets at Manchester. MANCHESTER, July 11. - The Guardian's commercial article says : Few sellers did a fair day's work yesterday at Friday's full prices. Frequently, however, sales in quantity were only possible at a slight decline; more frequently moderate progress was made at previous prices. Telegraphic orders from India were fairly abundant, but in a greater portion of them the limits were much below the current rates. When the orders nared the current prices they were in many cases accepted, yet sales were not very important, manufacturers resting as were not very important, manufacturers resting as far as possible, on orders on hand. Their course is also governed by the fact that the local holidays will lessen production for the next few weeks. They are moreover impressed by the continually narrowing margin between the prices of yarns and cloths. Unless, therefore, the cost of production is soon reduced by the decline in cotton and yarn, a further stoppage of looms seems inevitable. Already idle machinery multiplies. Manufacturers of leading china staples are well employed, though some are looking more earnestly for fresh business. For other directions business is moderate. There is a keen competition for orders. Dealings in export yarns are small, but prices are sustained by the absence of important stocks. A fair abundance of contracts are in hand. Home manufacturers are not inclined to tuy in quantity at current rates. In the cloth sections business in quantity is difficult to affect. Euyers with large orders sought to place them under Friday's rates, but didn't meet with success. India shirtings are fairly steady, with a small business. Dhooties are fairly steady, with a small business. Dhooties are fairly steady at the lowest point hitterto reached. Sellers make but little progress. The best prints are neglected; stocks are heavy; common and medium sells moderately little progress. The best prints are neglected; stock are heavy; common and medium sells moderately and Cases Made Against Them.

Two army captains will be courtmartialed before Recorder Anderson this morning.

They are Captain Miller and Captain Brown—better known as "Mother" Brown, of the Salvation Army. They are charged with disorderly-conduct, and the facts are these:

The two warriorsentered C. D. Kennebrew's barroom on Peachtiee street about 12 o'clock yesterday, and making their way through a crowd of thirsty and hungry sinners, asked Mr. Kennebrew to purchase a "War Cry," the official organ of the Salvation Army.

The women were in Salvation uniform and their entrance attracted attention from passers by, a number of whom entered the bar or stopped in the doorway.

"I don't want a War Cry," said Mr. Kennebrew, "but I want you to leave my barroom."

"Oh, you're going to hell," creaked Mother Brown.

"Yes," echeed the centain "renking again."

"Yes," echoed the captain, "you're a goin' to hell. You're going yourself and you're carrying the people there. You are damning men's souls,"
"You're a sinuar" chimed in Proper again men's souls,"
"You're a sinner," chimed in Brown again.
"You're a hardened wretch. You are gone up, "I want you to get out of here," said Mr.

The two females began praying at the top of their lungs, exhorting the bystanders to flee om the wrath to come.

Mr. Kennebrew did all he could to get the women out peacefully, but tiring of this he collared one of the females and landed her on the sidewalk.

At this juncture Patrolman Seale appeared on the scene, and matters gradually quieted down. Mr. Kennebrew complains that the patrolman did nothing but stand and look at the wemen, and it is understood that he will prefer charges against Seale for failing to discharge his duty.

Cases were booked against the two women and against Mr. Kennebrew for disorderly conduct.

THE PHARMACISTS Hold Their Thirteenth Annual Session Yesterday Morning.

A Good Attendance-President Case's Ad dress-Atlanta Selected Over Augusta by a Large Majority.

The thirteenth annual session of the Georgia Pharmaceutical association was held in the hall of the house of representatives yesterday

There were seventy-five representative phar mactists in the body.

At precisely ten o'clock President George
D. Case, of Milledgevilte, call the association morning.

Mayor Cooper was introduced and made a brief speech of welcome. Among other good things his honor said that Atlanta was too healthy a place for druggists to thrive in Responses were made by Messrs. H. K. Maine, of Dalton, and S. C. Durham, of Augusta. Both gentlemen delivered short, sensigusta. Both gentlemen delivered short, sensible, happy speeches.

A committee was raised to name the officers for the ensuing year, after which a recess was taken for the payment of dues.

The names of forty-two druggists were added to the list of members. Some of these were gentlemen whose membership had been forfeited by reason of the non-payment of dues.

The following Atlanta gentlemen joined the association: Messrs. David B. Candler, Thad B. Rice, F. O. Mays, A. J. Haltiwanger, W. C. Fincher, Alex. Dawson, N. H. Johnson, J. A. H. Harper, J. N. Gregory, Mr. Harper is from Decatur. is from Decatur.

The association was called to order a little before eleven o'clock. President Case delivered his annual address.

"I think," said he, "that the standard of qualification in pharmacists should be high. Pharmacy is a profession distinct from medicine, and requires special education to insure efficient work. I believe that a school of pharmacy should be established. The best plan for the establishment of this school is co-operation."

ation."

He thought that the legitimate profession of pharmacy should not be made co-equal with barrooms of the alcoholic license stigma. Inprovements in the pharmacy law were sug gested.

The address was applauded liberally.
On motion of Doctor W. A. Taylor, a committee composed of Messrs. S. C. Durban, J. W. Goodwyn and R. H. Land, was appointed to consider the school of pharmacy and improvement in the pharmacy law.

Papers on special technical subjects were read.

The Afternoon Session. Mr. Theo. Schumann, chairman of the committee appointed to confer with the technological commission in relation to the establishment of a school of pharmacy in-connection with the school of technology, submitted a report.

Mr. McMaster took the floor and moved that the school of pharmacy be established in con-nection with the medical college at Augusta. The motion provoked a spirited discussion. Doctor Taylor fought it in a good speech, giv-ing good reasons why Atlanta should have the school.

Dr. Schumann scored some strong points in by a vote of 4 to 1.

The report of the committee on nominations was adopted. The officers for the ensuing year will be W. S. Parks, of Atlanta, president; J. W. Goodwyn, of Macon, 1st vice-president; H. K. Maine, of Dalton, 2d vice-president; D. E. McMaster, of Augusta, 3d vice-president; H. R. Slack, of LaGrange, secretary, and M. H. Taylor, of Macon, treasurer.

The association them adjourned to meet at Salt Springs this morning at half past nine o'clock.

They left in a body for the Chautauqua at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Theo Schumann said yesterday: "I think the technological institute will either incorporate a school of pharmacy in the system or aid in the establishment of a school of pharmacy with part of its funds."

Gwin or Gwynne?

Reading of the marriage of Mr. Gill, of New York, to "Miss Gwynne, daughter of Duke Gwynne, naturally makes one wonder if the change in spell-ing their name is the work of the newspapers or of ing their name is the work of the newspapers or of the Gwins. At all events G-w-i-n is the way the late senator from California spelled it. Every one knows how common it is for persons of obscure ancestry to change the spelling of their names, but when people have any reason to be proud of their father or grandfather it is more usual to adhere to the nomenclature which evinces descent from such a respected source. Really it does not seem that the Gwins need to wish to hide their own ancestry by a change of name upon making an alliance with the Vanderblits. Or are these Gwynnes really Gwynnes, and not descendants of the famous southern politician of ante-bellum days?"

A New Motive Power.

A New Motive Power.

From the New York Herald. A man named Timmis, living at Pittsburg, has just perfected an invention by which a vast amount of motive power can be stored and promptly used. A New York Herald special gives a de-scription of this modern wonder. It is claimed for it that it can create a pressure of 20,000 pounds per square inch—"more than sufficient to propel the square inch—"more than summent to proper the largest ocean steamer afloat, or to move eighty laden freight cars in one train." This "pneumatic generator." as it is called, is pronounced by experts who have examined it to be a success. No imagi nation is so fauciful as to be capable of picturing the wonderful mechanical inventions that will be given to the world in the next quarter or half century. There is no dream too wild to be fulfilled,

THE CLERKS CONSULT.

Second Annual Convention of the Clerks of the Courts.

A Bill Prepared and a Committee Appointed to Urge Its Passage-The New Officers-Rome the Next Place.

The second annual convention of the clerks of the city and superior courts of Georgia met yesterday morning in the basement of the county courthouse. The attendance was not

It was reported that the bill which had been prepared by a committee of the association, and introduced in the last general assembly, had falled to pass both houses.

After some little discussion it was resolved to draft another bill, and a committee was charged with that duty. The committee submitted the following, and recommended that it be given the commendation of the association:

mitted the following, and recommended that it be given the commendation of the association:

A bill to be untified an act to describe and make certain the fees of the clerk of the superior and city courts as therein stated, and also to provide for the payment of the fees of said clerks in certain other cases therein stated.

Section I. He it cnaeted by the general assembly of Georgia, That from and after the passage of this act that clerks of the superior and city courts of this state shall not be required to file or docket any case or proceeding in which the plaintiff or complatinant is a non-resident of this state until ten dollars shall have been deposited with the clerk on account of costs; and it shall be the duty of the court, at any stage of such a cause, on motion of the clerk to require such additional deposits as the case may require. If the case be withdrawn or dismissed, or if the only the court at any stage of such a cause, on motion of the clerk to require such additional deposits as the case may require. If the case be withdrawn or dismissed, or if the only the court of the amount of the cost taxable by law in such case, the energy and the cost taxable by law in such case, the amount of such excess.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, that from and after the passage of this net, that the clerks of the superior and city courts of this state shall not be required to transmit to the superior courts of this solid exceptions or transcript of record until his fee for copying, certifying and transmitting the same shall have been paid, unless the plaintiff in error should file with his folliof exceptions are not not final hity, because of poverty, to pay said costs.

Sec. 3. Be if further enacted by the authority aforesaid, that from and after the passage of this act, that no clerk of the superior courts of this slate shall be required to file or docket in his office any bill for divorce until the libellant shall have deposited with the clerk sid on account of costs therein, and it such excess.

Sec. 4 Be it further enacted, etc. That all laws and parts of law, whether local, special, or otherwise, in conflict with this act be and the same is herebyre sied.

A committee was appointed to go before the legislature at its next meeting and urge that body to pass the above bill. The chairman named the following gentlemen as members of this committee: R. T. Ross, W. T. Kinsly, A. L. Ryals, J. M. B. Kelly, M. H. Woodall and A. R. Smith.

The president stated that any other members of the association could assist this committee and he hoped all would join forces and succeed in having the bill passed.

The following officers were elected to serve one year: President, A. E. Ross: vice president, C. H. Strong; secretary and treasurer, J. M. B. Kelly.

Rome was selected as the next place of meeting, and the second Wednesday in July, 1883, war chosen as the time.

The reticing president was thanked for his ability and courtesy.

He made a short address and returned his thanks to the convention.

The new president took the chair and made a short address, in which he thanked the convention for the honor conferred upon him.

The convention then adjourned.

A FINE SHOWING. Revenue Collections in the District of Georgia. Collector Crenshaw makes a fine showing in the matter of revenue collections in the dis-trict of Georgia, made in the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1888.

The whole amount collected during that year was $380,673.02.

There was collected during the corresponding fiscal year which closed June 30th, 1887, This shows an increase for the fiscal year just ended of $43,907.16.
When Collector Crenshaw first came into office, the total collections from all sources footed up $304,384.29.

The sum collected the fiscal year just ended, shows an increase of $76,288.73.

Of the reconstruction of $10,000 to year fiscal year. shows an increase of $76,288.73.

Of the amount collected the past fiscal year the sum of $208,417.80 was collected from the liquor tax at the rate of 90 cents a gallon.

This is a most healthy showing when considered in the light of the fact that a large number of the counties have adopted local option since Collector Crenshaw took charge of the department, about three years ago.

HOME TALK From One You All Know.

From One You All Know.

I have been handling In inorine in my drug business for the past two year, and knowing the formuna, can say for it want I cannot for many preparations. It is a scientific preparation, and one of the best combinations I ever saw. It contains no opium in any form, or any other drug that will injure any one in the least taken as directed. I have sold a great deal of it, and it has given the best of satisfaction and accomplished what is claimed for it. I can as a druggist conscientiously recommend it to the afflicted. I. H. Bradfield, of Smith & Bradfield, Druggists, 102 Whitehall street.

SEE WHAT A PHYSICIAN SAYS.

WADLEY, Ga., January 30, 1888.

It affords me pleasure to say that Invigorine is the floest product of the age to re-establish the prostrate fabric. It tones up the nervous system better, makes the steadiest nerves, strongest muscless and richest blood of any remedy I have ever had recourse to, and does more good in Bright's disease of the kildneys than all other remedies advertised so extensively for the cure of that trouble. It is that combination of vegetable tonics, nervines and elteratives with iron, that acts upon the secretions admirably, while it increases appetite, improves digestion, quiets irritated nerves and purifies the blood, and hence it is justly held in high esteem by the ladies for tiding them sweetly over the menopanse, that change in life that simulates so many diseases, wishing you great success, I remain yours truly.

BUTLER AND BLAIR.

A Lively Spat Between the Two Senators.

BUTLER CALLED BLAIR A DEMAGOGUE

And the Senator From New Hampshire said tina was a Traitor.

Washington, July 12.—[Special.]—It was a breezy day in the senate, and all because of the president's pension vetoes. Mr. Harrier the president's pension vetoes. Mr. Hawley started the ball rolling when "that old fool from New Hampshire," as Senator Blair is generally termed, entered the discussion by severely criticising the president and saying that he might, in his vetoes, have used the language of a gentleman.

"Let the president," he said, "look back over his own record and consider if silence is not golden, in some instances. Let him who is guiltless cast the first stone, whether he is at this end of the avenue or the other."

He then assaulted Senator Butler, of South Carolina, saying he had confessed himself negligent in the discharge of his duty. Senator Butler replied in a dignified man-ner to Senator Blair's onslaughts upon the president and then replied to those upon himself, in which he characterized Blair as a demagogue, alluded somewhat lightly to his courage, and said he and his measures were an incubus on the senate. His remarks were very scathing and CONSIDERABLY RILED the anger of Senator Blair, who jumped from his seat like a jack-in-the-box, and pttched into Senator Butler as a rebel and a traitor.

Senator Butler continued by saying he was no traitor, and was not indebted to the mercy of the government for his life, and wound up with the remark that he did not claim much personal courage, but Senator Blair would find that he would not shrink from any test he might apply. The debate was as suming a war-like tone, and Senator Butler was just about to again exceriate the old nuisance, when he was interrupted by the expiration of the morning bour, and was not permitted to reply. He will probably be heard to-

Senator Butler is one of the very ablest men in the senate, and is always ready for an effective reply to any bloody-shirt- flaunter that might knock the floor.

THE WOOL DEBATE IN THE HOUSE. Wool pulling commenced in the house today. Many republicans entered the contest, but the subject under discussion was only briefly touched upon. At the outset the bloody shirt was conspicuously waved. Nearly every member on the democratic side immediately retired and left the floor to the republicans, who devoted the day to the waving and flaunting of that ensanginued garment.

Mr. Kennedy, of Ohio, was so bitter and slanderous upon the south that even the mem-bers of his own party could not listen to his dirty remarks, and consequently retired. Georgia seemed to be his favorite state to slander, and he even went so far as to say, "If an asylum for idiots was erected in Georgia, the governor would have to escape to the mountains or else would be its first inmate." His slanders were so base and dirty that it is doubtful if be will be replied to. BUSINESS FOR THE WEEK.

Tomorrow will be devoted to the postoffice appropriation bill, and on Saturday the tariff will again be taken up. A vote on the wool schedule is expected on Monday afternoon.

The democrats are now confident that there will be no dissenting votes among members of their party in the house when the tariff bill is taken up for the passage the latter part of next week. Mr. Mills claims if Mr. Randall is present he will probably vote for it; also a number of republicans, including Messrs. Fitch of New York, Nelson of Minnesota, and publicans are also said to be in favor of the bill.

Colonel J. E. Peyton, of Haddonfield, New Jersey, is here endeavoring to get the mem bers of congress from the thirteen original states interested in a plan to construct a memorial monument in Philadelphia to preserve, rial monument in Financipula to preserve, conspicuously and permanently, the important events of the first century of American independence under constitutional government. His plan is to get the signatures of the representations. ntatives of the original thirteen states to a letter favoring it and then to have a bill introduced to make an appropriation for the construction of this monument. This letter is now being circulated among the members by General W. H. F. Lee, of Virginia, and others... In Colonel Peyton's plan for this monument he says it should consist of a grand arch en-trance to Fairmount park, and that the structure should rest upon thirteen arches repre-senting the original thirteen states. Each arch should be thirty feet in width Each of the original states should furnish the center stone of the arch with their coat-ofarms upon it, and it should be constructed with five columns carried up to a suitable height for bronze statues. The first should be the statue of Thomas Jefferson, holding the declaration of independence in his hands; the second Gen-eral Washington, with his sword; the next Robert Morris, with the purse: Madison, with the constitution, and Alexander Hamilton with the treasury. Also to have bronze plates, upon which shall be inscribed the history of important events of the country.

Mr. Randall is much improved today, and there now seems to be little doubt but that he The conference committee on the river and harbor bill is still in a deadlock. They were in session two hours today, but could not agree and will meet again tomorrow. E. W. B. SENATE'S PROCEEDINGS.

The Little Row Between Senators Butler and Blair.

Washington, July 12.—A resolution to print extra copies of the report of the committee on pensions, in the case of the seven vetoed pensions bills, was the text for some political discussion, Mr. Cockrell desiring to have the last of the pension vetoes (the Doherty case) printed among the other vetoes, and Mr. Hawley intimating that the publication of that veto would not help the president, or his party, with the surviving soldiers of the republic, in view of the assertion contained in it that there was reason to fear that the case in question would find a parallel in many other cases that had reached a successful conclusion.

Messrs. Hawley and Blair criticised the language of the president's veto messages, scarcely one of which, they said, but was discourteous to congress.

Mr. Butler defended the president, and quoting one of Mr. Blair's remarks about the president, made a personal attack upon Mr. Blair, whom he accused of demagogery.

Mr. Blair in turn attacked Mr. Butler, intimating that he was a traitor and indebted for his life to the mercy of his country.

Without disposing of the subject the senate, at 2 o'clock, proceeded to the consideration of the fisheries treaty in open executive session, and was addressed by Mr. George in favor of its ratification.

At the conclusion of Mr. George's speech the The Little Row Between Senators Butler and Blair.
